Ontario's Ombudsman Report

On August 24th, 2016, Ontario's Ombudsman released his long-awaited report into crisis situations involving adults who have an intellectual disability. The Ombudsman office heard more than 1400 complaints since they launched the investigation in 2012.

The report called Nowhere to Turn, detailed incidents of people being abandoned, or inappropriately placed in hospitals, jails, homeless shelters, long-term care facilities, and sometimes subjected to abuse.

Following the Ombudsman's report, the Minister of Community and Social Services, Helena Jaczek, offered an apology on behalf of her ministry and accepted all 60 recommendations.

Go to the Ontario Ombudsman website to see the full report or check our Resource list on our website.

THE GIFT CORNER

Connecting to our purpose and wanting to give back to others is a lifelong need but there are rites of passage when this becomes more urgent to us. Recently, Marilyn Haywood and I were invited by a St. Marys group that call themselves the “Elder’s Circle,” to learn more about core gifts and how to do each others interviews. All of the members have retired from a work life and now feel they have the time and energy to pursue what brings them joy and making a difference in the world. One member said he felt it was important to not waste time in this season of his life and this helped him to be focused and set priorities. Having the core gift interview was just another way to reflect on his gift and what he had already accomplished. Just like people with disabilities, elders can be a wealth of gifts that the community may not be accessing for a variety of reasons. Just think of what could happen if we would harness the great potential that lies around us!

If you have questions about core gifts or the interview that can help you learn more about yourself contact: Jennifer Leslie at (519)284-1400 ext. 228 or jleslie@clstmarys.ca

Re: Action4Inclusion

Re:Action4Inclusion is a province wide youth-focused social justice movement. Working from the belief that inclusion is a social justice issue, Re:Action4Inclusion empowers young change makers to work in partnership with adult allies to dispel negative biases that are often associated with people who have an intellectual disability. Re:Action4Inclusion is a part of Community Living Ontario.

In August, two local youth travelled from St. Marys to Kingston to participate in Re:Action4Inclusion’s Summer Institute Leadership Training. They had the opportunity to meet other young people from all over the province who have the same beliefs.

Two important changes to the Ontario Disability Support Program (ODSP) and Special Services at Home (SSAH) funding:

As of September 1st, once a person is deemed eligible for Ministry-funded adult developmental services, they will no longer have to go through a second process to verify their disability to qualify for the Ontario Disability Support Program. Existing ODSP requirements, including financial eligibility, will still apply.

Families receiving SSAH funding for children under 18 who have an intellectual disability will no longer need to re-apply every year for funding. This means all SSAH recipients will be automatically renewed at their current level of funding until they turn 18, as long as eligibility criteria are met. Should an SSAH recipient's circumstances or needs change they are encouraged to contact their regional office.
